

2.0 Logging System Components Flowchart

The diagram below shows the interaction of the components that make up a typical logging operation from the downhole data acquisition to the final supply of processed to the client.

